

Frequently Asked Questions
As at: April 1st, 2016

Can architecture react to social needs?

Photos & Design © Calvin Fung and Victor Huynh

Laka Competition 2016: Architecture that Reacts
Frequently Asked Questions

Architecture that Reacts

Frequently Asked Questions

1. Laka Competition

Q1: Is it okay to submit the same project that has been previously submitted to other competitions?

A: Participants can submit their projects that have been previously submitted to other competitions.

Q2: Is there a specific approach or place for the proposal?

A: As organisers we avoid applying too many design constraints on participants. Participants are free to decide about the location of the project, its scale, size and the program. There are highlighted issues that the jury will pay attention during judging in the Competition Brief.

Q3: Is there a specified site or area for the project? Is there a scale limit, size limit or particular program?

A: Participants are free to decide about the location of the project, its scale, size and program.

Q4: I received the registration number. Is that the only thing I needed for registration, without knowing my team members' names?

A: Please check the Competition Brief. The project submission must contain 3 files: 1) One board 24"(h) X 48"(w) in horizontal format with 150 dpi, saved as JPG file in RGB mode; 2) A DOC file with the projects statement; 3) A DOC file with the entrants' personal information (as explained in the Competition Brief).

Q5: Is video format allowed in the submission?

A: Video formats will not be accepted. Please check the Competition Brief which contains a list of three required elements of submissions.

2. Contact us:

If you have questions about the competition do not hesitate to e-mail us at: hello@lakareacts.com

Follow us on social media:

<https://facebook.com/Laka.reacts>

<https://twitter.com/lakareacts>

<https://linkedin.com/company/laka-architektura>